COLD MAY WEATHER. From several districts of the country reports have been received indicating frosts, and extremely cold and disagree able weather for this season of the year. Fears are entertained at some points that fruit and even the wheat crop have been injured, or at least endangered. But a "cold May storm" is really no new phenomenon. It furnishes its quota of prolific reminiscences to the oldest inhabitant, and though it may be inconvenient and deleterious to general health, as an established institution it must be regarded as having a to come. In any case it is not probable raison d'etre. That reason, however, is | that Senator Farwell will succeed himsomething that scientific men are not quite agreed about.

The great English meteorologist Fitzice and the absorption of heat near the polar circles. Other scientists have sought to account for the phenomenon by the southward drifting and gradual melting of ice-bergs in the Atlantic, in the month of May.

The latest opinion would seem to be that the flow of cold and humid air which is felt at this season of the year, is due to the fact that in the early spring the lands of the continent become superficially heated through the action of the northward-tending sun, and that the sea, being colder than the land, sends its denser atmosphere to restore the equilibrium destroyed by the rare 2handair,

As long ago as in 1844 Humboldt called attention to the importance of this phenomenon on account of its practical bearings upon the public health and upon all agricultural intere ts. The only advantage which can be attributed to it is that but for its prevalence the torrid heats of summer would burst upon the country with a suddenness that would be almost intolerable. Its counterbalancing disadvantage is the inevitable rapidity of changes of temperature.

It is accordingly a wise precaution to until the season is sufficiently advanced, and other sources of spring debility.

MARY E. BORKE'S CASE.

One of the strongest of pension cases is that of Mary E. Borke, the widow of | marks: "The Post has no rival as a attention. It does not appear that her arbitrary discharge from the roll of pensioners was justified by any provision of law. The report recently made in her case to the House of Representatives is as follows:

The Committee on Invalid Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 4427) granting a pension to Mary E. Borke, submit the following report:

This woman was a pensioner of the Goverement until 1886, when her name was dropped from the roll on the ground that she was guilty of adultery since the death of the soldier, and that a child was born as the fruit of such act. There is now in the record the testimony of several of her reighbors, who swear that, prior to this act of adultery and since, her character for chastity was and is good, and she has expressed great regret at her own conduct, and that since the birth of said child she has kept no company with any male person, and she is now living a virtuous and honorable life. The witnesses further testify that her health is very poor and without means of a livelihood except her own lator, and that she is unable to labor. The committee recommend that the bill do pass, and let the man who is without sin cost the first stone. It is requisite under the pension laws that a soldier's widow, to continue entitled to pension, must not remarry, but it is no condition of the beneficence of the Government that she shall remain fauntless in her conduct. It was without question most unfortunate and deplorable that Mrs. Borke should have been guilty of a very serious error. But neither that error nor the fruit of it, in the least released her from dependence on her widow's pension. At a time when unrefuted charges of a similar kind have been freely made against men in high official and social position, It seems hard to select this poor woman to be alone the victim of a rigid moral Without doubt the committee is right in recommending her restoration to the pension rolls, and it is justified in its rather unusual allusion to the fact that it is the man without sin who is entitled to cast a stone in such a case.

Senator Ingalla is reported to have recently said, that the Decalogue has nothing to do with politics. A portion of it, however seems to have dealt hardly in Mary E. Borke's experience.

A CURIOUS LIBER SUIT IS about to to come off in Paris. In 1887, when war was probable between France and Germany, General Boulanger was asked by his colleagues to submit the papers in the case. It was then discovered that the papers had all been stolen and that the Germans were in possession of the secrets of the Minister of War. A smart detective traced the papers to the Countess von Kessler. The Countess lived on the Ross de Lazare, where Boulanger was in the habit of amusing himself with cards, One evening while he was engrossed in a game the Countess went to the Hotel du Louvre and succeeded in getting at the General's cabinet and grabbed all the papers she could lay her hands on,

WASHINGTON CRITIC The detective managed to steal them all back. The story has come out and the Countess has begun her libel suit, the details of which will read like a remance.

> THE TABLE F DEBATE is probably very useless so far as any effect it may have on the convictions of Congressmen or citizens generally is concerned, but it had not been without its humorous features. Mr. Dingley inquired why the Mills bill taxed cabbages ten per cent., and left sauerkraut on the free list. Mr. Butterworth suggested that cabbage was raw material while Mr. Springer added that sauerkraut was a manufactured article. Then Mr. Springer said the duty on eggs was a measure of protection for ex-President Hayes, but declared that while a high duty was placed on wool the Ameri can hog was discriminated against inasmuch as bristles were placed on the free list. Verily these are important and convincing statements.

UNDER THE STATUTES of Illinois the Legislature about to be elected will redistrict the State. The gerrymander effected by the Republican majority ten years ago has kept that party in power ever since, but things are more evenly balanced now. When the late General Logan was last elected to the United States Senate there was a tle on joint ballot for several weeks which was finally broken by the death of a Democratic member and the election of a Republican as his successor. If the Democrats gain control of the Legislature they will probably exercise their power in redistricting in such a way as to secure their interests for some time

HARRISON AFRAID OF QUAY. He Does Not Ask Him for an Explana.

The fact that Chairman Quay has indefinitely postponed the meeting of the National Executive Committee, says a Washington dispatch in to-day's Philadelphia Record, serves as the new basis for the old story that President Harrison oded an explanation from Quay of the charges nade against him; that Quay refused, and that Harrison thereupon demanded his resignation of the Chairmanship of the Republican Na-tional Committee. Of course the story now winds up with the declaration that ay postponed the meeting of the com-or his resignation.

This is a pretty story, but, unfortu-nately for Harrison, it is only an irides-ent dream. Harrison cannot success-ully demand either an explanation or a resignation from Quay, Quay is the master of the National Committee, Dudley and Clarkson are his lieutenants, and the rest of the committe being for Quay as against Harrison, consequently whatever Harrison, desires may be, Troubled as he is by the charges, Quay has nothing to fear from him. If there is any fear between them it is felt by Harrison, as he looks forward to

LONG - DISTANCE TELEPHONING

Successful Test. Washington Connected With Other Cities The rooms of the American Telephone Exchange in this city were filled with a distinguished audience of citizens who went there by invitation to particlpate in a novel entertainment on Saturday evening. The occasion was a test o the long distance telephone. Each of the guests was provided with a pair of band telephones with which they listened to vocal and instrumental music being rendered in New York and Philadelphia. Lillian Russell sang several airs on the stage of the New York Casino, and her voice and the applause that fol-lowed were faithfully reproduced here on the long-distance phones. There vere also several cornet solos, a piece on violin and additional songs. The test was voted a perfect success. Lunch was Bryan of the telephone company, Mr. George Van Benschoten, special agent of the company, and Mr. McCartney of New York acted as the hosts of the evening.

Among the guests were Massrs. B.
H. Warner, E. Kurtz Johnson, H. K.
Willard, William T. Carleton of the Carleton Opera Company, M. G. Emery, T. B. Kalbfus, C. C. Glover, John M. Corson, Samuel Norment, G. H. B. White, E. Francis Riggs, Harry C. Fisk, A. T. Britton, W. H. Rapley, Commissioner Robert, Captain Lusk and Dr. D. B. Clarke, The test developed the fact that the long-distance phone is destined to play a great part in the electrical world in the future. Since the invention of the telephone in 1876 by Professor Alex-ander Graham Bell, its use as a means of quick and perfect communication has increased with rapid strides until to-day there are in use in the United States 450,380 telephones, distributed among 185,003 subscribers, who use their telephones on an average six and seven times a day.

In the adaptation of the telephone to public uses many obstacles were met with in attempting to communicate between distant points. On grounded circuits troubles are often encountered from earth currents, leakage from electric light and trolly wires and inductive effects from the numerous wires tive effects from the numerous wires strung in cities, make conversation difficult and almost impossible.

The public demand for long distance communication increasing since the construction of the first line in 1884, the company has rapidly extended its plant, which now connects the principal cities of the Eastern and Middle States. During the past year the long distance lines have been extended from Phila-delphia to Baltimore and Washington, and a second line has been connected with Reading, Easton and Scranton, and Newport, Fall River and New Bedord have been connected with the Eastern lines. The American Tele-phone and Telegraph Company have arranged with the Chesapeake and Po-tomac Telephone Company to operate their office in connection with the local exchange.

GOSSIP OF THE SPORTS.

Washington and Baltimore Meet for the First Time Tq-Day.

The wet grounds prevented the game on Saturday between the Washingtons and Wilmingtons, but the local team will make up for it to-day by playing two games, one with the Wilmingtons and the other with the Baltimores. The last game is one transferred from Bal-timore, in order to avoid playing there on the day the circus visits that city. It will be the first time the local team has played the Orioles and there has been considerable speculation as to the relative merits of the two teams. Each will present their best battery. Phil-lips and Riddle will do the honors for Washington and German and Town-send for the visitors. A large number of Baltimoreans will accompany their eam and the game promises to be battle royal.

In the Willmington game which will be commenced at 1:30 o'clock, Nicholas and McCoy will be pitted against Stein and Corcoran.

The long-expected fight between the two colored light-weights, Jesse James and Lee Demareux will take place at daylight to-morrow at a point down the river. Those who witness the mill will leave the city about midnight and it is expected that the party will be back in town by 8 o'clock. Bill Northedge has and Lee Demareux, will take place at the affair in charge and tickets can be secured at his place 314 Eleventh street northwest up to the hour of starting. The mill ought to prove as clever a light-weight battle as has occurred in this vicinity recently. Both men are in excellent trim and have trained hard for this fight. They met once before and although only a few rounds were fought before the police stopped it. both men showed they were game and skillful fighters. The tickets are limited and only about fifty persons will be able to see the fight.

The date for Jack Hopper's benefit has been fixed for Wednesday night. It will come off at Portner's Hall, on Virginla avenue, between Sixth and Sevent streets southwest. There will be twelve set tos between prominent professionals and Hopper and Northedge will wind up. Jack ought to have a rousing good send-off. He has made many friend since he first came here to prepare fo his fight with Billy Myers.
